

« RINGING » A PLANT

Sometimes, when you water a plant, if the soil is too hard, water can flow away before going into the soil. This can also happen if there is a slope in your garden.

A good solution for this is to surround your plant with a small ring of dirt. It will help your plant to prevent the water from going away.

That way, water will stay in the ring and have time to enter the soil and give water to the roots of the plant !
